

FEATURED POSTS

Opinion: Policy Entrepreneurs: The Power of Audacity

Bruce Levinson | 05/21/13

The most powerful, influential, and creative people in any society are its entrepreneurs. Entrepreneurial endeavors span every field of human enterprise: commerce, academia, the arts, and, yes, even the career civil service. The power of civil service entrepreneurship was beautifully illustrated in a recent book by Ken Godwin, Scott Ainsworth...

See entire post

1 2 3 4

Recent Posts

News

Analysis

Opinion

Series

PPR News

PPR Home

Topics

Submissions

Resources

About Us

FEATURED SERIES

Regulatory Breakdown in the United States

Regulatory Year in Review: 2012

Remembering James Q. Wilson

Romney's Regulatory Plan

Get RegBlog's Weekly Email

RuleFinder.org

REGULATORY PROPOSALS OPEN FOR COMMENT

NEWS

ANALYSIS

OPINION

Agencies Act to Address Risks from Sun Exposure

Kara Cheever | 05/27/13

U.S. government takes measures to protect public from excessive sun exposure.

CFPB Seeks to Increase Oversight of Nonbank Student Loan Servicers

Lauren-Kelly Devine | 05/23/13

Proposed rule to protect nearly 50 million Americans with student loan debt.

We Live in an Interagency World

Jason Marisam | 05/28/13

Despite conventional wisdom, agency coordination can sometimes improve presidential control.

Draft Bill Would Limit EPA Rulemaking Power

Alix McKenna | 05/22/13

Proposal would require Energy Department to review EPA regulations costing more than $1 billion.

Policy Entrepreneurs: The Power of Audacity

Bruce Levinson | 05/21/13

What can the efforts of a single former OIRA official teach about making broad institutional changes?

Congress Considers Limits on "Sue and Settle" Lawsuits

Eric Lorber | 05/09/13

Republicans introduce bill limiting settlements of regulatory lawsuits.

Republican Bills Would Obstruct Enforcement of Environmental Laws

John Walke | 05/20/13

Proposed legislation could give industry intervenors excessive influence in rulemaking.

The Regulatory Week in Review: May 24, 2013

Christina Reichert | 05/24/13

EPA proposes rule for stringent emissions standards, Supreme Court gives deference to FCC statutory interpretation, and more.

The Regulatory Week in Review: May 17, 2013

Christina Reichert | 05/17/13

DOJ opens investigation of IRS for unfair scrutiny, the Senate confirms Moniz as Secretary of Energy, and more.

See all

See all